

RAILROAD PRESIDENTS WHO CONFERRED WITH WILSON

These are the heads of some of the biggest railroads in the United States, who have been conferring with President Wilson regarding the threatened strike. They have agreed to accept the eight-hour day if assured of freight rate increases with which to reimburse their treasuries for the additional expense involved.

CANNON "JONAH" OF DINGLEY LAW, GALLINGER SAYS

Looking about for a "Jonah" upon whom they might heap the burden of blame and visit the penalties attaching thereto.

Selected for Sacrifice.

"These men, with the active assistance of the democrats, selected for this sacrifice a man who had served this country in the house of representatives thirty years and at all times with more than ordinary honor and distinction and who, in that position, had consistently, continuously and honorably advocated the protective tariff system as the one sure and logical means for the perpetuation of an industrial system which never has had a parallel in the history of the world. This man, who had so earnestly and ably, so long and successfully defended the best interests of our country, and then whom no greater patriot nor more faithful servant has ever been in the public service, was Joseph G. Cannon.

Picked His Confederate.

"They declared that 'Cannonism must go' and this cry was echoed all over the land. The chorus was joined in it must be remembered by a few republicans of unquestioned power, whose word became law. And then to show the sincerity of their convictions and their willingness to throw overboard all who stood in their way, the democrats were permitted to select as Mr. Cannon's confederate a man who, out of the abundance of his learning and energy had for years performed the difficult tasks connected with chairmanship of the senate committee on finance a man who had always in season and out of season been true to the republican faith and who had constantly and untiringly worked to bring out invaluable facts that have been used to advantage for the benefit of the nation.

Chosen for Attack.

"This man, Nelson W. Aldrich, was chosen for attack and denunciation. His clear view enabled him to penetrate the beyond, and he was able to render service of such inestimable value that few of us can even now realize the worth of the man or appreciate the value of his services to the country."

COMMISSION REFUSES TO ACT IN FILM COMPLAINT

Conspiracy to Advance Prices Alleged By Exhibitors, Who Invoke Law.

The corporation commission this morning refused to assume jurisdiction over the complaint of B. H. Powell, president of the Oklahoma branch of the National Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America, against several film companies, he alleged had entered into an unlawful conspiracy to advance rental fees on films.

The complaint was filed on behalf of a number of moving picture theaters in Oklahoma under provision of the state anti-trust law.

In its opinion the commission says it has no jurisdiction over the subject matter, but suggests that the attorney general may bring proceedings against the defendants who are the Mutual Film corporation, General Film company and Universal Film and Supply company.
